Life In Lubbock TX

The month of February has been a rather strange one. We started off the month with what the locals call a haboob. It is basically a huge dust storm mixed with rain clouds. Because of all the dirt in the air when it rains, it comes down as mud. At the end of January, I started having Bible studies with some Mormon missionaries. I had a number of these studies in Miami. It can be very interesting, they seem pretty confident that they can convert me to Mormonism. The last study we had, things started changing for the best. We have formed a relationship and the study has turned into a deep conversation. I can now talk rather freely about the Bible and what it says about God's plan, without having to worry that they will just leave. Please be praying that the word of God is planted deep in their hearts so that after they finish their mission it keeps growing. Jaret, Dakota and I are really excited about our trip to South Africa. I've talked to the leaders at the church there; they are also excited about us coming. I still need help with the ticket to get there. If you know anyone who would be interested in helping me, please give me a call or an email. My contact information is below.

Sunset International Bible Institute

We just finished our third term, which was supposed to be the hardest one of this year. This year so far I have passed all my classes. We have one more term to go. I'm excited about it, because every term we learn so many different things. This term my favorite class has been Jude. Our teacher said that Jude is one of the most underrated books in the New Testament and after the study we did on it, I'm obliged to agree with him. My favorite verse in Jude would have to be Jude verse 1, the writer is most likely a brother to Jesus, so the humility he brings at the start of the letter is astounding. He could very easily hold his title as the physical brother of Jesus over the church's head. However, instead he takes the place with them as a fellow slave of Jesus.

AIM

Working as an AIM assistant has been a very challenging commitment. Between being a full-time student and participating with a local church, having the responsibilities of an AIM assistant thrown into the mix has proven to be quite the challenge.

Along with some other assistants, I have been mentoring the Aimers going to Ireland. It has been really great working with this team. However, working with them has also been challenging. They started out as a four girl team, but one of them had to go home and leave the program, so now there are just three of them. The transition from classmates to teammates, and then losing one, has proven to be challenging for them. But we are very proud of the way they are working together. Even though they don't know what to expect in Ireland, they feel confident about going.

Upcoming events

Please be praying for the next trips we will be taking. First is the AIM trip to Tallahassee, FL. We are taking the Aimers to work with a college ministry there. They are having a Christian Conference and we will be promoting for AIM there. This has turned into a great opportunity to tell people on the east coast about AIM.

Also, I still need help with the plane ticket to South Africa. We will be working as the college interns for their college ministry program, as well as all the other ministries that the church does there. If you or anyone you know would be interested in helping me with this trip, please contact me.

Special thanks

I want to give a special thanks to everyone who supports me. Without you nothing that I have been blessed to do and am doing would be possible.
